David J. Lukinovich

David Lukinovich is a Board Certified Tax Specialist and a Board Certified Estate Planning & Administration Specialist certified by the Louisiana Board of Legal Specialization. David handles a variety of tax and business matters for partnerships and closely-held businesses, including providing business, corporate, individual and estate tax advice and asset protection planning advice. David has over forty years of experience, first as a Certified Public Accountant, then as an attorney concentrating his practice in tax, business, and estate planning, a great deal of which involves wealth preservation for professionals, business owners and other individuals with ultra-high net worth, business succession planning and exit strategies for closely-held business owners. David is licensed to practice in Louisiana and Texas but has consulted with clients throughout the United States, Puerto Rico and beyond.

David received his B.S. in accounting from Louisiana State University, his Juris Doctorate (magna cum laude) from Loyola University of the South Law School in 1986, where he served as Managing Editor of the Loyola Law Review, and an LL.M. degree in taxation from New York University. David practiced as a Certified Public Accountant for two years in New Orleans, Louisiana, prior to embarking on a legal career. Additionally, David has served as an adjunct Professor in taxation and probate procedure at Loyola University School of Law and has participated in the planning for the annual Loyola Estate Planning Conference from its inception. David is a member of several professional organizations and serves on the boards of various businesses and charitable foundations, several of which he created as a founding member.

David and his wife, Kim, are the proud parents of seven adult children, all of whom reside in Baton Rouge, Louisiana.
